

Anna Khomichko's consummate artistry rests on a powerful musical conviction, intelligence, and maturity. Her fascinating personality and charisma immediately mesmerises any sort of audience. On the top of her career as a concert pianist, Anna is also running a blog about classical music on her YouTube channel and creates a role model of a young female leading musician and inspire thousands of people of any age, background or profession.

Highlights of the 2019/2020 season are Anna Khomichko's recitals with her program "Wagner am Klavier" in Berlin, Munich, Dresden, Bremen and Luzern as well as lecture recitals at the Bechstein Center Cologne and in the Kunsthau Salzwedel with various programs.

This season Anna will also debut performing Tchaikovsky's 1st piano concerto with the Sochi Symphonic Orchestra. In previous seasons Anna was seen performing as a soloist with the Jena Philharmonic Orchestra, the Bryansk Philharmonic Orchestra, the Murmansk Philharmonic Orchestra, the Orchestra of the Lithuanian Academy of Music and the Symphonic Orchestra of the Russian Gnessins Academy of Music.

Anna Khomichko is a winner of 15 international competitions and has got various scholarships. She presently studies with Professor Claudio Martinez Mehner and Professor Nina Tichman at the Hochschule für Musik und Tanz in Cologne.